

Sample Assessment Outputs and Build Artifacts

A summary of the output types customers can expect from Solarly for Agentforce.

Purpose

This brief describes the types of outputs customers can expect from Solarly for Agentforce. The exact content can vary by assessment, but the product is designed to generate durable planning artifacts rather than one-time conversational guidance.

Core Output Categories

- Assessment summaries that capture the active state of the reviewed scenario
- Structured recommendations tied to the assessment context
- Implementation-ready build-plan signals that support follow-on work
- Persisted Salesforce records that keep the work reviewable and traceable
- Supporting diagnostic or audit details where additional technical context matters

How Customers Commonly Use These Outputs

- Prepare internal implementation planning discussions
- Create a clearer decision trail for Agentforce-related work
- Document gaps and recommended next actions
- Support stakeholder alignment before configuration or build work begins

Sample Interpretation Framework

- Summary: What is the current readiness state and why does it matter?
- Recommendation: What should the team do next?
- Artifact: What record, plan, or output should be retained for follow-on work?
- Operational action: What admin, architect, or delivery step should be scheduled next?

Important

Generated outputs should always be reviewed and validated by the customer's own admin, architect, or delivery lead before implementation decisions are finalized.
